

10-27-1977

Washington University Record, October 27, 1977

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.wustl.edu/record>

---

Recommended Citation

"Washington University Record, October 27, 1977" (1977). Washington University Record. Book 84.
<http://digitalcommons.wustl.edu/record/84>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Washington University Publications at Digital Commons@Becker. It has been accepted for inclusion in Washington University Record by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Becker. For more information, please contact engeszer@wustl.edu.

WU Record

Published For The Washington University Community

October 27, 1977

First Calhoun Lecture To Be Delivered By George P. Shultz

George P. Shultz, former Secretary of Labor and Secretary of the Treasury, will speak on "Energy and the Market Place" at WU. An eminent economist and leading authority on labor-management relations, he will give the first David R. Calhoun, Jr., Memorial Lecture on Mon., Nov. 7, at 4:30 p.m. in the Seeley G. Mudd Court Room on the campus. The address is sponsored jointly by the Center for the Study of American Business and the School of Business and Public Administration.

The Calhoun Lecture Series, established by friends and associates of the late David R. Calhoun, Jr., is designed to make a constructive addition to the study and discussion of the important role of business in a free society.

A prominent St. Louis business executive, David Calhoun was chairman of the board of First Union, Inc., a major bank holding company. At the time of his death at 71 on May 15, 1974, he had been a member of the WU Board of Trustees since 1955. He was also very instrumental in the success of the University's two major fund-raising campaigns.

Active in civic affairs, Calhoun was the recipient of three major awards for his outstanding leadership and contribution to the greater metropolitan St. Louis area—the St. Louis Award (1955); the first annual St. Louis Globe-Democrat Man of the Year Award (1956); and the Levee Stone Award from Downtown St. Louis (1973).

Shultz has had a distinguished career in academia, government and business. Currently president of the Bechtel Corporation, he also is a professor of management and public policy at the Stanford University Graduate School of Business.

Shultz began his career as a member of the faculty of his alma mater, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

George P. Shultz

(continued on page 4)

A lady from Hong Kong peers into the camera of Herb Weitman, director of WU's Photographic Services and lecturer in fine arts. This photograph, along with approximately 100 other art works, will be on display at the annual Faculty Art Show opening Sun., Oct. 30. (See story on page 3)

Annual President's Report Chronicles Growth At Medical Center and In Redevelopment Area

In this year's annual WU Medical Center President's Report, issued last month, Dr. Samuel B. Guze, WU vice chancellor of medical affairs and president of the center, noted the center's developments and accomplishments as well as some of the problems which the complex will face in the future.

"Our accomplishments continue to be gratifying," Guze said. "We can describe major progress in our redevelopment area, diversity and strength in both inpatient and outpatient health services, and burgeoning continuing-education programs."

Among the center's future problems, Guze said, are utilization of remaining land, with particular concern for the "sea of automobiles about to overwhelm us"; unprecedented government regulation on all levels; and the need for a "comprehensive long-range plan in energy management."

Over $15 million was spent during the past year for capital improvements by the center, which now covers more than 57 acres of ground. Over $100 million was committed for new projects to be completed within the next several years.

Among the projects completed recently or to be completed soon are: (1) Jewish Hospital's major renovation of the Kingshighway Pavilion, which includes an expansion of the Renal Dialysis facility; (2) the installation of a second cyclotron in the sub-basement of Barnard Hospital, which will make the center the only one in the world with two operating cyclotrons; (3) the total renovation of the eighth floors of Mater-nity and McMillan Hospitals into offices, laboratories, and clinical facilities; (4) the renovation of 13,000 square feet of space in the Cancer Research Building.

Construction has begun, Guze said, on the West Pavilion of Barnes Hospital. The new pavilion will be 17 stories high and will house patient rooms, new operating facilities and two floors for the Mallinckrodt Institute of Radiology. Four floors will also be added to the East Pavilion. Plans are going ahead at Children's Hospital to construct a new patient tower over a portion of Kings-highway, and at the Central Institute of

(continued on page 3)

Campus's Nighttime Watering Spots Rival Baskin-Robbins, Santoro's

If it's a quick snack you are looking for or some conversation or maybe just a cozy place in which to mull over the day, the WU campus has a place for you. The nighttime haunts run the gamut from Wohl Center's Bear's Den for a late dinner to the Umrathskellar for Monday night televised football. You don't have to take a step off campus to find food, entertainment or good company.

South Forty, the dormitory side of campus, offers three main nighttime hideouts. Wohl Center is a beehive of activity from the dinner hour until late into the evening. The Game Room enables students to let off steam with a game of Ping-Pong, pool or pinball. One of the greatest student diversions, the television, is in The Cage area of the center, which is a tiny room across from the center's store, the Coop.

Wohl Formal Lounge has constant activity, from the Tuesday night women's films and the Wednesday night fall film festival to the Thursday evenings of music and lounging. Adrian Glore, coordinator of student affairs of the South Forty, hopes to expand the use of the Formal Lounge, possibly with small dramatic presentations.

The Bear's Den is one of the busier areas of the center. It serves food and honors the University meal ticket. It is perfect for students who miss regular dining hours in Wohl Center and need their nightly nourishment. "We come after volleyball practice for dinner," said one sports enthusiast. "It's a good place to grab a quick meal."

Several students admitted that the Bear's Den, which closes at 10 p.m., was not the best place to simply come and be sociable. "People come to eat and run," commented an evening diner. But it is a good place to play cards, which is the most prevalent activity other than eating.

There are two other places on the South Forty to satisfy the late night munchies. Fat Albert's, open from 10 p.m. until 1 a.m. during the week and until 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday, is a comfortable meeting place for a study break or for an after-study treat. The establishment, located beneath the Residential Life Center, offers fancy teas, coffees, hot chocolate, ice cream and luscious ice cream concoctions and bagels with a variety of cheeses. Kevin Jones, speaker of the Congress of South Forty, says Fat Albert's attracts people from all over but mostly those who live on campus.

The place is small and often packed on the weekends. Occasionally, guitar music adds to the chatter of students relaxing after an evening of study. "Actually," said Jones, "it's not so loud that you can't hear yourself talk."

Peter H. Zimmerman

Fat Albert's, one of the popular night spots on campus, lives up to its name with ice cream concoctions, fancy teas and coffees on its menu.

An alternative to Fat Albert's, especially for those with a limited amount of time, is Catcher-in-the-Rye, located in Shepley Hall. It is an informal place for study breaks, and often students can be found moseying around in nightgowns and bathrobes for a late-night snack. There are no waitresses or waiters, but only a student manning the toaster and kitchenette. Catcher-in-the-Rye, open Sunday through Thursday, from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., offers bagels with butter or cream cheese, the famous Catcher-in-the-Rye pizza bagel with cheese and tomato sauce, cupcakes, pastries, coffee, tea and soda. "Most students just run over to grab a snack and go back to studying," said manager Cindy Goldmann. "It's faster and cheaper than Fat Albert's." Occasionally, someone brings a television down, and there are plans to purchase a radio.

On the main campus, students can take advantage of several nighttime hangouts. One of the most popular is the Umrathskellar, which received its name as the result of a student's ingenuity. Located in Umrath Hall, it recently celebrated its second birthday. This is the only place on campus where the older crowd can get a mug of beer.

But even if you can't drink, Umrathskellar has many other attractions. Football is transmitted to an enthusiastic audience over a seven-foot screen on Monday nights. Would-be talent has an opportunity to show its stuff during an open-mike evening every other Wednesday night, with the crowd serving as judge. The performer chosen as the best of the lot has a chance to make it on the bill for Friday night live entertainment, from 8:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m.

The Umrathskellar received a new facelift this year with pipes painted the color of brick and plants accenting corners. The main room houses the television screen and is usually the noisiest, with Thursday and Friday being the most crowded and uproarious nights. "Each room has its own personality," said manager Angeline Herr. The jukebox room is just what it is called. A large back room may be reserved for private gatherings, and a smaller back cove is perfect for lovers or for intimate conversation. The ambience is cozy and congenial, sometimes too loud for conversation, but usually conducive to meeting and chatting with friends. Besides the beer, the Umrathskellar offers the largest hamburgers on campus, said Herr, as well as pizzas, salads, desserts, one daily hot entree, soft drinks, peanuts and popcorn.

The Umrathskellar is open Monday through Thursday 11 a.m. until midnight, Friday and Saturday until 1 a.m., and on Sunday from 4 until 10 p.m. It's at its busiest around 8 or 9 p.m.

Holmes Lounge, another popular spot, is a quieter alternative to the Umrathskellar. "It has a coffee house atmosphere without the music," suggested one graduate student. The large open room is filled with tables for studying and some comfortable chairs for relaxation and conversation. It is often quiet enough during the evenings to get some studying done, but also has a perfect atmosphere for meeting friends. The Lounge offers snacks for study breaks, including coffee, tea, soft drinks and desserts. The usual evenings crowd tends to be graduate students and some professors who need a late-night place to read, relax or talk.

(Mari Edlin)

Medical Center

(continued from page 1)

the Deaf plans are being made for a 72-car parking lot, an improved circulation plan for better accessibility and a landscaped area along Taylor Avenue.

The City of St. Louis, Guze added, has completed a master traffic plan for the Central West End, including the area around the Medical Center. For better traffic movement, Taylor Avenue will be widened and straightened.

A measure of the progress of the three-year old redevelopment project for the 36-area block around the Medical Center, Guze said, is the changes which have taken place in the 4400 block of Laclede (Laclede Place). Many homes in the block have been renovated, and new gates to the street have been installed, along with a sodded, landscaped median and new street lights. The Blue Cross Regional Headquarters, employing over 1000 persons, was completed nine months ago; construction is well underway on Monsanto's $12 million research laboratory, and the finishing touches are being put on the Park Place Apartments, a 242-unit apartment complex for the elderly at Forest Park Boulevard and Newstead Avenue.

New plans for the area include, Guze said, the total renovation of an apartment building into 12,000 square feet of retail space and 16 apartments, representing an investment of $800,000. Also, the Boulevard Apartments (just east of Euclid Avenue on Forest Park) are to be renovated into 85 apartment units for the physically handicapped.

Approximately 2235 students were enrolled in training programs at the center during the past year. Of growing importance in the educational programs offered, Guze said, are the continuing education programs which are given through the School of Medicine and which numbered 27 last year.

Funding for research at the Medical Center this year is up $3.8 million for a total of $29.9 million. The research ranges from basic investigations in biology through studies of treatment to the role of sociologic and epidemiologic factors in disease, Guze said.

Over 65,000 persons received medical care on an inpatient basis last year at the center's hospitals and 201,246 persons received medical attention as outpatients. The center ranks first in the volume of outpatient care administered in the St. Louis area. Over $5.5 million in free medical services was provided by the center last year.

The WU Record is published weekly during the academic year by the Information Office. Editor, Janet Kelley; calendar editor, Charlotte Boman. Address communications to Box 1142.

Playwright Edward Albee will speak in Graham Chapel at 11 a.m., Nov. 2.

800 Pints of Blood Sought In WU Drive, Beginning Oct. 31

The Fall Blood Drive at WU will be held from Mon., Oct. 31, to Fri., Nov. 4, at Mallinckrodt Center, Rooms 303 and 304. Hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on the other days.

The blood drive has been organized by students working with the WU Student Health Service, the Office of Campus Programming and the Missouri-Illinois Regional Red Cross Blood Program.

John C. Galanis, Red Cross representative who has been working with the students, said the goal of the drive was 800 pints of blood. During the annual Spring Blood Drive, 646 pints of blood were collected. "Blood is critically needed," Galanis said. "The Red Cross must collect 800 pints a day to meet the needs of the people within a 200-mile radius of St. Louis."

Gloria White, assistant vice chancellor of personnel, said employees may take time to donate blood with the advance permission of their supervisors.

There are a number of eligibility requirements for donating blood. Among them are: a parental consent form which must be signed by a parent or guardian for those 17 years of age and under; a physician's written consent form for donors over 65.

NOBEL LAUREATE ROSALYN S. YALOW, who won this year's prize for medicine, will give the third annual Mildred Trotter Lecture at the WU School of Medicine at 4 p.m., Tues., Nov. 1, in Moore Auditorium. She will speak on "Perspectives of Radioimmunoassay." Dr. Yalow, is Distinguished Service Professor, Mount Sinai School of the Medicine, City University of New York.

OVERALL ENROLLMENT at WU this year, including full-time and part-time undergraduate and graduate students totals 11,147.

Annual Faculty Art Show Opens at Steinberg Oct. 30

3

Roger I. DesRosiers, professor and dean of the WU School of Fine Arts, will be among eight new faculty members to exhibit for the first time in the University's annual Faculty Show to be held Sun., Oct. 30, to Sun., Nov. 27, in the Steinberg Gallery of Art. More than 100 works of art representing painting, drawing, sculpture, ceramics, printmaking, photography, multimedia, metalsmithing and graphic design will be on display. Many of the pieces in the exhibition will be for sale.

The show will open October 30 with a reception sponsored by the Women's Society of WU from 3 to 5 p.m. in Steinberg Hall. The public is invited to attend. Gallery hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturdays, and 1-5 p.m. Sundays.

Other new exhibitors will be Roger Egan and John Foster, lecturers in drawing; Dan Gualdoni, research associate in printmaking; Thomas Haxton, assistant professor in fashion design; Mary Hicks, instructor in design; Jim Nickel, lecturer in design; and Jon Palmer, assistant professor in sculpture.

Also on display will be works completed by three well-known faculty members who are now retired. The three, all painters, are Kenneth Hudson, dean emeritus of the School of Fine Arts; Ethel Metelman, assistant professor emeritus of art, both will be residents of St. Louis County; and Charles Quest, professor of art emeritus, who now lives in Tryon, N.C.

William Quinn, professor of art and chairman of the exhibition, described the event as "the closest thing to a unified community art show in the city and St. Louis's equivalent to the Whitney Show in New York." He said that its purpose is "to show the quality and achievements of the faculty not only as teachers but as professional artists. It also provides a learning experience for students who are exposed to their teachers' art works."

DesRosiers, who is also designing the show, will exhibit three large oil paintings measuring five feet square. Though the new dean deals entirely with inner images, his canvases, nonetheless, project a landscape-like quality and generally include a horizon line, which serves to orient the viewer. A colorist, DesRosiers finds he is increasingly interested in a square, ever-larger format and he plans a future series of eight-foot-square paintings.

GREGG MAYER, assistant professor or performing arts, will perform interpretive dance to traditional and original American music at the Old Courthouse at 12:15 p.m., Tues., Nov. 1. Also performing will be WU alumnus and folksinger Walt Jenkins, and WU student and dancer Brook Klehm.

4 Calendar

October 28-November 3

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28

4 p.m. Division of Biology and Biomedical Sciences Seminar, "Regulation of Viral Gene Expression by Glucocorticoid Hormones," Gordon Ringold, prof. of biology, U. of Calif., San Francisco. Erlanger Auditorium. 4565 McKinley.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29

9 a.m. School of Dental Medicine Continuing Education Course, "Adult Orthodontics for the General Practitioner," Dr. Robert H. Biggerstaff, chairman, Department of Orthodontics, U. of Ken., Lexington. School of Dental Medicine. To register, call 361-4700, ext. 287.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 30

8 p.m. Hillel Foundation Wine and Cheese Party, for Jewish women. Hillel, 6300 Forsyth.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 31

11 a.m. Department of Civil Engineering Seminar, "A Summer at Argonne," Mark Rossow, WU assoc. prof. of civil engineering. 100 Cupples II.

3 p.m. Department of Romance Languages Lecture, "La Philosophie de Sartre Aujourd'hui," Oreste F. Pucciani, prof. of French, UCLA. Steinberg Auditorium.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1

4 p.m. Third Annual Mildred Trotter Lecture, "Perspectives in Radioimmunoassay," Rosalyn Yalow, Distinguished Service Professor, Mt. Sinai School of Medicine, City U. of New York. Carl V. Moore Auditorium, 4580 Scott. Sponsored by the WU Department of Anatomy.

4 p.m. Department of Chemistry Seminar, "Molecular Structure and Molecular Orbitals," Hans Bock, prof. of chemistry, U. of Frankfurt, Germany, and visiting prof., U. of Mich., Ann Arbor. 311 McMillen Lab.

8:30 p.m. Second Harris Armstrong Memorial Lecture, "The 'Crisis' in Modern Architecture," James Marston Fitch, prof. of architecture, Columbia U., N.Y. Steinberg Auditorium. Sponsored by the School of Architecture.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2

11 a.m. Assembly Series Lecture, "The Playwright Versus the Theatre," Edward Albee, playwright. Graham Chapel.

4 p.m. Department of Music Lecture, "Western Influences on Non-Western Music in the 20th Century," Bruno Nettl, prof. of ethnomusicology and anthropology, U. of Ill., Champaign. Tietjens Rehearsal Hall.

4 p.m. Department of Physics Colloquium, "Are Cosmic Rays Accelerated by Large Amplitude Waves?" Martin A. Lee, WU asst. prof. of physics. 201 Crow.

7 p.m. Women's Law Caucus Symposium on Women and Health, "Our Bodies—Or Are They Really Ours." Topics to be presented include women in health care, sterilization and abortion. Presentations will be followed by a discussion period and social hour. Mudd Moot Court Room.

3 p.m. Assembly Series Informal Exchange, with Edward Albee, playwright. Women's Bldg. Lounge.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3

4 p.m. Department of Chemistry Seminar, "Short-Range Order and Molecular Correlations in n-Alkane Liquids," John Bender, WU postdoctoral research associate. 311 McMillen Lab.

Early music repertoire is the forte of the Deller Consort, which will perform Sun., Oct. 30, at 8 p.m. in Edison. See Calendar listing below.

8 p.m. Student Union Poetry and Fiction Reading Series, "Three Poets Reading," with Amy Wachspress, and R. J. Penoyer, WU graduate students in English, and Ann Friedman, WU alumna. Hurst Lounge, Duncker Hall. A reception will follow the reading.

8 p.m. School of Fine Arts Lecture, "Hans Hoffman, Neglected Pioneer," Darby Bannard, artist and art critic, New York. Steinberg Auditorium.

FILMS

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28

7:30 and 9:45 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "The Seven-Per-Cent Solution." Brown Hall Theatre. Admission $1.50. (Also Sat., Oct. 29, same times, Brown.)

8 p.m. WU Film Art Series, "Blonde Venus," with Marlene Dietrich. Rebstock Auditorium. Admission $1.75; $1 for WU students with ID. (Also Sun., Oct. 30, 2 p.m., Rebstock.)

12 midnight. WU Filmboard Series, "Women in Love." Brown Hall Theatre. Admission $1. (Also Sat., Oct. 29, midnight, Brown; and Sun., Oct. 30, 8 p.m., Wohl Center.)

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29

8 p.m. Office of Student Affairs American Cinema Series, "A Star Is Born," with Janet Gaynor; and "Sunset Boulevard." Rebstock Auditorium. Admission $1.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1

12:30 p.m. Women's Tuesday Film Series, "Campaign" and "Woo Who?—May Wilson." 303 Malinckrodt. Sponsored by the Women's Programming Board. (Also 6:30 p.m., Wohl Center.)

7:30 and 9:45 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "Dinner at Eight." Brown Hall Theatre. Admission $1.50.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2

7:30 p.m. Hillel Foundation Film, "Joyce at 34," Hillel. 6300 Forsyth. Discussion to follow film.

7:30 p.m. WU Filmboard Series Double Feature, "The Thief of Paris" and "Le Samurai" (9:45 p.m.). Brown Hall Theatre. Admission $1.50 for either or both films. (Also Thurs., Nov. 3, same times, Brown.)

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3

7 and 9 p.m. Office of Student Affairs and WU Filmboard St. Louis Film Premiere, "Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man," directed by Joseph Strick. Admission $2. Brown Hall Theatre. (Also Fri., Nov. 4, same times, Brown.)

PERFORMING ARTS

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28

8 p.m. Edison Theatre Series, The Richard Morse Mime Theatre, with Morse and Rasa Allen performing "Duet." Edison Theatre. Admission $4.75; $3.75 for students not from WU, and WU faculty and staff; $2 for WU students. Tickets available at Edison Theatre Box Office. (Also Sat., Oct. 29, Edison.)

MUSIC

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 30

8 p.m. Music at Edison Series, The Deller Consort. Edison Theatre. Admission $4.80; $3.75 for students not from WU and WU faculty and staff; $2 for WU students. Tickets available at Edison Theatre Box Office.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3

8:30 p.m. Hillel Foundation Concert, Hasidic music, with Velvel Pasternak, assoc. prof. of Jewish music, Touro College, New York City. Hillel, 6300 Forsyth.

EXHIBITIONS

"Faculty Show," an exhibit of works by WU faculty. The exhibit will feature more than 100 works of art representing painting, drawing, sculpture, ceramics, printmaking, photography, multimedia, metalsmithing and graphic design. Steinberg Gallery. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Mon.-Fri.; 10 a.m.-4 p.m., Sat.; 1 p.m.-5 p.m. Sun. Oct. 30-Nov. 30.

SPORTS

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29

1 p.m. Soccer, WU vs. William Jewel College, Liberty, Mo. Francis Field.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 31

4 p.m. Cross Country, SLACAA Championship. UMSL, 8001 Natural Bridge.

6:30 p.m. Women's Volleyball, WU vs. UMSL. Women's Bldg. Gym.

Calhoun Lecture

(continued from page 1)

(MIT), in 1948 and he taught there until 1957. He moved to the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business that year to become a professor of industrial relations, and served as dean of the Graduate School of Business from 1962 to 1968.

Shultz left academia to serve as Secretary of Labor (1969-70) and Director of the Office Management and Budget (1970-72). He was appointed Secretary of the Treasury in 1972 and served until 1974, when he joined Bechtel Corporation as executive vice president. He was elected president of Bechtel in 1975.

Shultz's most recent book is Economic Policy Beyond the Headlines, written in collaboration with Professor Kenneth M. Dam of the University of Chicago. A cum laude graduate of Princeton University, Shultz earned a PhD in industrial economics at MIT in 1949. He served as a major in the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II.